Living with the Dingo

By Adam O'Neill.

Adam O'Neill outlines his controversial hypothesis on the importance of the natural dingo family structure. His experiences in various habitats, combined with a review of scientific and other literature, has given him a unique insight into the important role that dingoes play in assuring ecological balance.

Limited quantity of signed copies

Price $24.95

Dingo Innocent

By Buck Richardson.

So far, every commentary on the Chamberlain case from the courts, print, film and now an opera, has been constrained by a two-alternative straitjacket of Lindy or the dingo when neither is tenable on the evidence.

Dingo innocent shows there was evidence pointing to a third alternative that was discussed at length at the first two coronial inquiries. This evidence has been ignored ever since.

Limited quantity of signed copies

Price $19.95

The White Dingo

By Jack Elstone.

The White Dingo is a great Australian story. It is heart wrenching and confronting whilst being entertaining, amusing and educational. It is a book that all lovers of wildlife, the outback and good literature should read.

Warning: The book contains some violence and harsh language. Not recommended for readers under the age of 15 years.
